

Workshop on

Global Perspectives in Agriculture: Exploring Opportunities for Study Abroad

Virtual workshop. A Zoom link will be provided upon successful registration.

17 JUNE 2023 (SATURDAY): 4 - 6 PM IST

As the world becomes increasingly interconnected, the importance of international education cannot be overstated. Studying abroad offers unique opportunities to gain valuable skills and knowledge, expand your cultural awareness, and broaden your academic horizons. In the field of agriculture, study abroad programs can provide students with exposure to different agricultural practices, technologies, and policies that can help them tackle the challenges of feeding a growing population in a sustainable way. In this workshop, various study abroad programs available for MSc and PhD students of agricultural universities, including assistantship/ scholarship opportunities, strategies for GRE/ TOEFL, designing statement of purpose (SOP) and Curriculum vitae, will be discussed in detail.

OBJECTIVES OF THE WORKSHOP

- Providing an overview of the benefits of studying abroad for MSc and PhD students of agricultural universities, including academic, cultural, and personal growth.
- Presenting various study abroad programs available to MSc and PhD students of agricultural universities, including assistantship opportunities, exchange programs, and research internships.
- Sharing information about the application process for study abroad programs, including tips on how to write effective applications, strategies for GRE/TOEFL, SOP, CV and how to secure funding.
- Encouraging MSc and PhD students of agricultural universities to consider studying abroad
